Let's hope truth will come out in lawsuit

As members of the Rockford Diocese and St. John Neumann Parish in St. Charles, my family and I extended, on behalf of all churches and people of the Rockford Diocese, our heartfelt apologies to the families and the two young ladies who were sexually molested by Mark Campobello.

It is our deepest prayer and concern from our heart that both of these young ladies and their families not only survive the consequences of this tragedy but that they can recover in a way that enables them to go forward in life to reach their hopes and dreams and have lives that are high functioning, healthy and fruitful.

With the civil lawsuit filed June 16 by attorney Keith Aeschliman against Mark Campobello, the Diocese of Rockford and our Bishop Thomas Doran, we hope through the discovery process during the litigation the parties involved and the public finally will know the truth in all its details regarding who knew what and when.

Many of us believe once the whole truth is revealed, all those involved, our sister parish St. Peter's Church in Geneva and the Rockford Diocese finally can heal and move forward.
